The government has announced a RM7 billion stimulus package to bolster the Malaysian economy from the impending global financial crisis. Amongst the measures is the lifting of import duties and approved permits (AP) for cement and steel bars. It is anticipated that these measures, coupled with the drop in fuel prices, will create more competitive building material prices and help to overcome supply bottleneck and stabilize material prices.

Join us as we hear from the Ministry of Industry and International Trade (MITI) and industry experts on the impact and implications of these measures in balancing supply and price.
